

Engage: Dynamic Ways of Connecting

Cohort Learning Information

Are you part of or lead a career development team that is interested in learning more engaging, dynamic ways of working with your clients?

We are thrilled to share with you the Engage:Cohort Learning option to Norm Amundson and Andrea Fruhling's Engage: Dynamic Ways of Connecting course, available NOW through the Canadian Career Development Foundation's VOCO Online Learning platform.

Course Content

Progress through the Engage course in a series of Lunch & Learn style segments (recommended), or design a way of engaging in the material that works for your team. We have broken up the Engage course content into 20 one hour long Lunch & Learn style segments, that can be completed in a time that suits your group.

Team Leader

One member of your group will need to assume the role of Team Lead. The Team Lead will have access to the Engage: Cohort Learning curriculum, including advanced full access to the coursework to assist with planning. The Team Lead will also have access to a comprehensive 23 page Leader's Guide. Whether you are new to facilitation or a seasoned pro, the Leader's Guide and coursework does the heavy lifting for you. The resources provided throughout the course in addition to the Leader's Guide will give you all the information you need to support your team as they learn together.

As the Team Lead, you will be able to:

- Look ahead and create a suitable learning plan for your group that fits with your schedules.
- Contact Andrea Fruhling (course creator and instructor) with any questions you have as you progress through the coursework
- Receive a $50 per participant discount rate for your entire cohort (groups > 10)
- Gain access to the Leader's Guide outlining best practices, suggested ways to engage with the course material and even possible adaptations based on time available and context.
